Dear Mr Bhabishan [REDACTED]

Re: Application under the Right to Information Act 2009

I refer to your application received by Right to Information and Privacy Unit, Queensland Police Service (QPS) on 6 July 2023, in which you seek access to the following documentation pursuant to section 23 of the Right to Information Act 2009 (Qld) (RTIA):

Subject/Seeking: In the night of March 3 and 4 an incidence of vandalism occurred at the Hindu temple, 3, 46 Daymar St, Burbank QLD 4156. The newspapers of March 4 reported this unfortunate incidence and without any enquiry Sikhs were blamed for this vandalism. Me being a Sikh felt very bad and have thus waited all these months to know the outcome of police investigation. I hope by now it has been completed and case assigned to court. I thus seek the following documents: 1. Copy of police investigation report on the above incidence, 2. Status of case if it pending in the court of law, 3. Copy of court judgement if the case is decided (if I am not supposed to lodge a separate RTI for this.) 4. Details if the case was closed on the request of some one. 5. All letters including emails the police received on this case. Type of documents requested: 1. Copy of police investigation report on the above incidence, 2. Status of case if it pending in the court of law, 3. Copy of court judgement if the case is decided 4. Details if the case was closed on request of someone. 5. All letters emails resting on this crime.

From the terms of your request, I am satisfied that the documents to which access is sought should be dealt with under the RTIA.

FEES AND CHARGES

Application Fee

I acknowledge receipt of the non-refundable application fee of $53.90. No further fees or charges are payable.

IDENTIFICATION/AUTHORITY

I acknowledge receipt of certified identification, as required by section 24(3) of the RTIA.

SEARCHES

Following receipt of your application, searches were conducted for documents relevant to your request. As a result of those searches, 12 documents were located and a determination made concerning them.

DECISION

As a delegated officer under section 30 of the RTIA, I have made a decision on your application.

I have determined today to:

- fully release 5 documents
- partially release 7 documents pursuant to the provisions of sections 47(3)(b), 49 and Schedule 4, Part 4, Section 6 of the RTIA.

The release documents consist of,
QPRIME Occurrence Report

documents 1 to 7
documents 8 to 12

The QPRIME Occurrence reports provides details of the offence and investigations conducted by Police. After extensive investigation no suspects have been identified and the investigation was closed pending further information coming to the attention of Police.

REASONS FOR DECISION

Section 47(3)(b) - Grounds on which access may be refused

Section 47(3)(b) of the RTIA provides that access to a document may be refused to the extent to which the document contains information the disclosure of which would, on balance, be contrary to the public interest under section 49.

Section 49 – Contrary to public interest

Disclosure under the RTIA is subject to exemptions and public interest factors. In this case, I have determined that disclosure of some of the matter in issue would be contrary to the public interest pursuant to section 49 of the RTIA.

Section 49(1) of the RTIA states:

If an access application is made to an agency or Minister for a document, the agency or Minister must decide to give access to the document unless disclosure would, on balance, be contrary to the public interest.

Section 49(1) creates a presumption in favour of disclosure; that is, information must be disclosed unless disclosure would be contrary to the public interest. Section 49(2) of the RTIA sets out the steps, and, in schedule 4, the factors, Parliament considers appropriate for deciding whether disclosure of the information in question would, on balance, be contrary to the public interest.

Section 49(3)(a) – Irrelevant factors

In accordance with section 49(3)(a) of the RTIA, I have rejected all of the factors outlined in Schedule 4, Part 1 as being irrelevant to my determination.

Section 49(3)(b) – Relevant factors in favour of disclosure

In accordance with section 49(3)(b) of the RTIA, I have taken into account relevant factors favouring disclosure outlined in Schedule 4, Part 2, including particularly:

Administration of Justice

Section 16, which states: Disclosure of the information could reasonably be expected to contribute to the administration of justice generally, including procedural fairness.

Section 17, which states: Disclosure of the information could reasonably be expected to contribute to the administration of justice for a person.

Section 49(3)(c) – Relevant factors favouring non-disclosure

In accordance with section 49(3)(c) of the RTIA, I have taken into account relevant factors favouring non-disclosure outlined in Schedule 4, Part 3, including particularly:

Disclosure of the information could reasonably be expected to prejudice the protection of an individual's right to privacy.

The RTI Act recognises factors in favour of nondisclosure where disclosure could reasonably be expected to:

- prejudice the protection of an individual's right to privacy;<sup>1</sup> and
- cause a public interest harm if it would disclose personal information of a person, whether living or dead.<sup>2</sup>

Although privacy is not defined in the IP or RTI Act, it has been described as, 'the right of an individual to preserve their personal sphere free from interference from others.'<sup>3</sup>

The information requested relates to enquiries with individuals other than yourself and by its nature contains personal information such as names and contact details. Whether or not a person has been spoken to by police or has cooperated with police is information that is within an individual's personal sphere.

Prejudice flow of information to police

Some of the information involves the provision of information to police by people other than yourself. This information has been provided to police in a cooperative fashion whilst police were investigating these matters. When considering this type of information, the Information Commissioner has previously identified that routine disclosure could reasonably be expected to discourage the sharing of information and cooperation with police.<sup>4</sup>

Public interest harm factors

In accordance with section 49(3)(c) of the RTIA, I have taken into account relevant harm factors outlined in Schedule 4, Part 4 as favouring non-disclosure, including particularly section 6(1) and (2), which states:

- (1) Disclosure of the information could reasonably be expected to cause a public interest harm if disclosure would disclose personal information of a person, whether living or dead.
- (2) However, subsection (1) does not apply if what would be disclosed is only personal information of the person by whom, or on whose behalf, an application for access to a document containing the information is being made.

Part 2 section 12 of the IPA states:

Meaning of personal information

Personal information is information or an opinion, including information or an opinion forming part of a database, whether true or not, and whether recorded in a material form or not, about an individual whose identity is apparent, or can reasonably be ascertained, from the information or opinion.

In this instance, I have removed the personal information of persons other than yourself. The release of this kind of information would be contrary to the public interest under Schedule 4, Part 4, section 6 of the RTIA.

Balancing factors for and against disclosure

I have weighed the public interest factors in favour of disclosure and non-disclosure, including taking into account the matters identified within sections 49(3)(d),(e),(f) and (g) of the RTIA. I note that section 49(1) of the RTIA creates a presumption in favour of disclosure. However, in this instance, I consider that the public interest considerations favouring disclosure outweigh the public interest considerations in favour of non-disclosure, in so far as the documents do not identify any person or constitute a release of any person's personal information, as mentioned above.

Section 75 of the RTIA permits this Unit to release the located documents to you subject to the deletion of information the release of which would be contrary to the public interest. Accordingly, the documents will be provided subject to the deletion of this material.

It should also be noted that release of documentation under the RTI & IP Acts is essentially release to the world at large, in that there is no provision for disclosure subject to any condition, republication of the accessed documents or dissemination of the information contained in the documents. Once this unit releases material there can be no limitation to further disclosure by the applicant. This is not to suggest that you would indiscriminately disclose documents of this nature; however, the prospect of unauthorised or accidental disclosure by the applicant is also a public interest factor that I must consider.

Disclosure Log

Pursuant to section 78 of the RTIA, documents released as a result of this application will be considered for publication on the Queensland Police Service Disclosure Log. Please note, documents containing personal information and/or information considered to be either exempt or contrary to the public interest will not be published in accordance with section 78B of the RTIA.

REVIEW

Your attention is drawn to the enclosed sheet which details your right of review.

 Subject: RE: TPN on vandalization of temple in Brisbane [SEC=OFFICIAL] OFFICIAL Boss, I have looked into QP2300376564, a graffiti incident at the Hindu Temple located at 46 Daymar St, Burbank. I have also spoken with Security Intel officers regarding the matter as they have had a few things to do with the Sikhs for Justice events. The source is a [REDACTED] who has been engaging with intel officers and major events regarding the Sikhs for Justice and Hindu conflicts. It is believed [REDACTED] is trying to get information from Police to pass to the Hindu groups and may have some mental health and attention seeking issues. She will not speak to anyone below the rank of Sergeant and does not want her address released to any officer below that rank. The temple wall was graffitied on the night of 03/03 with large black writing (photos attached). Although there is CCTV at the location it was not installed correctly and was not working at the time. There was information that the Hindu security guard believed the persons who were vandalising had jamming devices they were using to stop the cameras however it was confirmed there were just issues with the installation. There are no suspects in relation to the graffiti and SOC were not required. It is believed the graffiti can be easily cleaned by the informant. Intel officers also believe that the graffiti may have been done by the Hindu's themselves in order to generate police attention towards the SFJ group. Regards, Nicole Nicole Doyle DETECTIVE SENIOR

The graffiti wasn't discovered until the first practitioners attended the Temple which opens its gates at 6:30 which gives a possible time frame for the offence of 10-hours.

A review of the TMR cameras shows that the nearest camera is on the opposite side of the Gateway Motorway approximately 2-kilometres (West) away. Map attached to occurrence for reference.

DAYMAR Street as well as the neighbouring street, PILLINGER form a closed cul-de-sac. Entry to this cul-de-sac is made from BROADWATER STREET onto DAYMAR.

Any vehicle involved in this offence, leaving or entering DAYMAR may have come from either end of BROADWATER, which feeds onto/from the Gateway Motorway (North and South), Mount Gravatt-Capelaba Road, Rochdale Road or Mount Cotton Road.

Only if the involved vehicle continued along Mount Gravatt-Capelaba Road in an westerly direction would it have been captured by the TMR camera, but this has a 10-hour window which makes it impossible to track and there is no sighting of any vehicle involved.

Inquiries to continue. 4016626
